North lomei labyrinth shrine entrance

Finding the North Lomei Labyrinth in The Legend of Zelda: Tears of the Kingdom and Unlocking Its Terminals We're excited to share with you how to navigate through one of the many challenging labyrinths in the game, the North Lomei Labyrinth. This maze is filled with puzzle shrines and exciting discoveries. To access it, we'll guide you on where to find it on both the sky map and on the surface. First, head east from the Pikida Stonegrove Skyview Tower using coordinates (-2139, 3067, 0443). From there, launch into the air and make several stops on floating islands. As you glide through the wind shafts, focus on finding a platform with a fan on top of it. You'll need to face down the fan to lift up the platform. Make sure to wait for the full charge before picking it up. Once you have the platform, follow the path and climb stairs until you reach North Lomei Castle Top Floor. However, interacting with the entrance will be denied. Now, jump into the North Lomei Labyrinth on the surface. Carefully drop onto the indicated spot to access a lit area where you'll find a ladder. Follow it straight up to reach an ice block that can be melted with Fire Fruits. Unlocking Mayaotake Shrine here also gives you a terminal unlocking the entrance to the North Lomei Labyrinth in the sky, starting 'The North Lomei Prophecy' quest. You can now teleport back using Tenbez Shrine. To access all terminals, find four more throughout the labyrinth. The first is right in the middle, activated by placing your Travel Medallion and then popping back into the maze every time you turn on a terminal. Alternatively, if you don't have a medallion, simply navigate through the labyrinth's wind shafts using your navigation skills, stopping at platforms to regain stamina as needed. You're at the North Lomei Labyrinth, with three terminals to activate. Start by jumping from the ledge or standing on the fence to get to the middle terminal. Then head south, gliding down until you see the second terminal. Next, go east and stop at lands for stamina if needed. From there, follow the route shown to reach the fourth terminal. This labyrinth is relatively easy compared to others in the game. Once done, you'll unlock the Depth. Jump down from the platform into the chasm area, using Miner's Gears or Brightbloom Seeds for light. You'll see a red glow and then a basement with stairs. Use your preferred light source and equip fighting gears now. Hit the boss's head with the Bomb Flower to break it down, then damage its core before it gets back up. Defeating the boss unlocks the final terminal and a chest. Don't forget to fuse the core with your weapon for a nice buff. # The North Lomei Labyrinth is a challenging maze located in Breath of the Wild and Tears of the Kingdom. Located in the Hebra region, it features the Qaza Tokki Shrine at its center. The main objective is to find the shrine while navigating through the labyrinth, which also contains several enemies such as Blue Lizalfos and Black Lizalfos. As soon as Link enters the Labyrinth, he begins the Trial on the Cliff shrine quest, which requires him to defeat a Malice Eyeball to remove it. To complete this task, Link must backtrack along the blue dotted line and climb the ladder to the second floor, where he can find the Qaza Tokki Shrine. The actual shrine is a blessing shrine that houses the Barbarian Leg Wraps in a treasure chest. Once claimed, Link can meet with Qaza Tokki to receive a Spirit Orb. The Labyrinth also contains several notable loot locations, including Korok Seeds and treasure chests filled with items such as Zonaite and Flame Emitter. If you're having trouble finding your way around the map, try consulting our Shrine locations guide and Skyview Towers guide for some helpful tips. For The Legend of Zelda: Tears of the Kingdom North Lomei Labyrinth, head to the northeastern part of the Hebra region (north and center on the map). To speed things up, glide west from the Typhlo Ruins Skyview Tower to reach the Sky Labyrinth, where you can tag the Tenbez Shrine as a fast travel point. From the Sky region, dive down to the Surface Labyrinth. Try to land on top of the walls and find your way to the central terminal. The path might be tricky to spot, but look for it in the lower-right corner of the center area. Interact with the terminal to get the North Lomei Prophecy quest, and also use flames to melt the ice so you can enter the Mayaotaki Shrine. Once inside, grab the Diamond from the chest and collect Rauru's Blessing before returning to the Sky Labyrinth. Next up is the Tenbez Shrine puzzle in the Sky Labyrinth. Here's what you need to do: When the ball is on the right side push block, hit the switch to turn it into a low gravity area. Then, stand on the right-side push block while low gravity is active and use Recall to target the bullseye when the ball bounces over. For the second puzzle section, make sure low gravity is still active and use Recall again. Cancel recall just before hitting the switch to make the ball fall. To grab the chest, stand on the left-side push block during low gravity, and to reach the upper section, stand on the right-side push block. Now, move on to activating the four terminals in the maze. Since it's a low-gravity area with updrafts, you can jump to higher areas. Use the strong updraft near the entrance to climb halfway up the walls (look for red-colored designs and frills). Drop back down when you see a terminal, or fast travel back to Tenbez Shrine and repeat if needed. After activating all four terminals, ride the updraft to the main terminal and interact with it to open the gates to the chasm. Skydive all the way down to fight the Flux Construct III in the North Lomei Depths Labyrinth. The player must navigate through the North Lomei Labyrinth to access the shrine quest, Trial on the Cliff. To begin, locate the raised passage leading to the center of the labyrinth from the top. Then, proceed eastward until reaching the closed gate with the shrine behind it. To overcome obstacles, employ strategies such as utilizing Ultrahand to grab energy blocks and employing AoE damage to clear paths. The player will encounter blight covering their path; turning right while facing the shrine alleviates this issue. Follow the winding path as it branches into two directions, then proceed eastward, making sharp turns left and right. Avoid a Lizalfos lying in wait by taking out the enemy before proceeding northward past the Fire Rod. Next, navigate through pillars with a moving Lizalfos sniper on the far right, employing evasive maneuvers to safely pass. Upon reaching a specific point, take a right turn to zigzag westward, effectively avoiding the remaining Lizalfos patrols. The goal is to complete the shrine quest, which requires successful completion of this labyrinthine challenge. North until you see a chance to turn left and head west again. When the path zig-zags northwest, look for a short stairway leading to a platform with three torches to the north, and a tunnel to the south. The other side of the tunnel is covered in blight, so leave it for now and take a left after passing the tunnel opening. Follow this new path all the way south until it curves to the right and keep going west as it zig-zags to the end and turns left to go south again. At the intersection, take a right and then a left, hugging the left wall until you can turn left again to start heading east. Follow the path as it goes up and then right until you reach the central area around the shrine again - now you can view the Blight Eye on the left and snipe it to destroy the blight area. Go back north through a small tunnel and take another left to find a new tunnel that used to be covered by Blight. Head east through this path and keep following it until you see a split to the right, then go straight to wrap around a wall where two torches show a ladder going up to an upper platform. Follow this platform along a low staircase through a tunnel into the central shrine chamber. You can now enter the Shrine and collect your Spirit Orb! The room you enter has an opening at the top above the shrine, which is easy to spot by the vine work coming down from it. You can climb up and find yourself on a platform with three chests containing 1 topaz, 1 ruby, and 1 sapphire. To get the Diamond, climb back into the maze - there are areas where you can rest on the way up, but you need to move sideways to the outer edges to "uncrouch". Inside the maze, you can find a Silver Rupee (100), a Gold Rupee (300), Edge of Duality, and Ice Arrow x5. Finally, head back to the North Lomei Labyrinth to collect the powerful armor piece that comes with completing this section. Typhlo Ruins Skyview Tower offer strategic advantages for players seeking to conquer the North Lomei Labyrinth. The presence of a Wing Zonai launching pad allows for easier sky-based navigation and provides a means to control flying creatures. By utilizing this feature, players can bypass the labyrinth's lower sections and focus on reaching the North Lomei Castle Top Floor. The first part of the quest requires navigating the labyrinth while avoiding Gloom, but a more efficient approach involves following the trail of items left behind by researchers. However, this method risks causing confusion and disorientation. A more reliable strategy is to utilize Ascend to reach the top of the labyrinth and then drop down to activate the Dragon Ring and complete the Shrine. Upon completing the North Lomei Labyrinth, players receive a message from the ruler of owls, granting them access to previously inaccessible areas. The North Lomei Castle Top Floor presents unique challenges due to its aerial nature, but using the map provided can aid in locating the four terminals. Activating all terminals unlocks a new Dragon Ring on the roof, which can be accessed via Paraglider. Ultimately, players must prove their courage by descending into the Depths and facing Flux Construct III to claim the final rewards. When fighting the Flux Construct III, wait for it to separate its Core Cube from its body before attacking. As you battle, the cube will switch places with other cubes, giving you chances to grab and deal prolonged damage. The boss has three forms: Humanoid, where it reassembles itself in front of you; Cube, where it rolls around and jumps towards you; and UFO, where it becomes a platform, requiring you to ride blocks back up to its body to attack the Core Cube. Defeating the Flux Construct will reward you with the Evil Spirit Greaves. To access Mayaotaki Shrine in the North Lomei Labyrinth, head northeast until you reach the tower, which is still a ways off. Instead, travel east from Oshozan-u Shrine to reach it faster. To find Mayaotaki Shrine's entrance, approach it from the western side and look for a small camp and a trail of Hylian Pine Cones. Use the pine cones to create an updraft at the entrance, then follow them through the labyrinth. You'll pass by a niche that allows you to ascend to the top of the walls. From there, walk east towards the marked space on your map until you see two glowing torches below. Glide down and follow the pine cone path again to spot the shrine. Once inside, use fire items or create a campfire to melt the ice blocking the entrance. The chest in the center will contain a Diamond, and examining the altar will give you a Light of Blessing.
